It is also a history of platforms and communities that never quite made it, that struggled to make their voices heard, that aggravated against the conventions of the day and that never enjoyed the commercial success or recognition of their major counterparts. In Minor Platforms in Videogame History Benjamin Nicoll argues that minor videogame histories are anything but insignificant. Through an analysis of transitional decolonial imaginary, residual and minor videogame platforms, Nicoll highlights moments of difference and discontinuity in videogame history. From the domestication of vector graphics in the early years of videogame consoles to the cloning of Japanese computer games in South Korea in the 1980s, this book explores case studies that challenge taken-for-granted approaches to videogames, platforms and their histories. Illusions in Motion Erkki Huhtamo, 2023-08-22 Tracing the cultural material and discursive history of an early manifestation of media culture in the making. Beginning in the late eighteenth century, huge circular panoramas presented their audiences with resplendent representations that ranged from historic battles to exotic locations. Such panoramas were immersive but static. There were other panoramas that moved, hundreds and probably thousands of them. Their history has been largely forgotten. In Illusions in Motion Erkki Huhtamo excavates this neglected early manifestation of media culture in the making. The moving panorama was a long painting that unscrolled behind a window by means of a mechanical cranking system, accompanied by a lecture, music and sometimes sound and light effects. Showmen exhibited such panoramas in venues that ranged from opera houses to church halls, creating a market for mediated realities in both city and country. In the first history of this phenomenon, Huhtamo analyzes the moving panorama in all its complexity, investigating its relationship to other media and its role in the culture of its time. In his telling, the panorama becomes a window for observing media in operation. Huhtamo explores such topics as cultural forms that anticipated the moving panorama: theatrical panoramas, the diorama, the panoramania of the 1850s and the career of Albert Smith, the most successful showman of that era; competition with magic lantern shows; the final flowering of the panorama in the late nineteenth century; and the panorama's afterlife as a topos traced through its evocation in literature, journalism, science, philosophy and propaganda. What is Media Archaeology? Jussi Parikka, 2012-06-11 An introduction to an emergent area of media studies. Media Archaeology is a hot topic which is principally concerned with providing more of a historical view of new media and technology. This book lays out the key ideas, thinkers and examples to give readers an entry point to this complex area. Technologies de l'enchantement Angela Braiton, Yves Citton, 2014 Peut-on faire une histoire de l'illusion qui ne se confonde pas avec une litanie de dénunciations? Doing Experimental Media Archaeology Andreas Fickers, Annie Oever, 2022-12-31 This book offers a plea to take the materiality of media technologies and the sensorial and tacit dimensions of media use into account in the writing of the histories of media and technology In short it is a bold attempt to question media history from the perspective of an experimental media archaeology approach It offers a systematic reflection on the value and function of hands on experimentation in research and teaching Doing Experimental Media Archaeology Theory is the twin volume to Doing Experimental Media Archaeology Practice authored by Tim van der Heijden and Aleksander Kolkowski

Archaeology and the Politics of Vision in a Post-modern Context Julian Thomas, Vítor Oliveira Jorge, 2008 Archaeology is intimately connected to the modern regime of vision A concern with optics was fundamental to the Scientific Revolution and informed the moral theories of the Enlightenment And from its inception archaeology was concerned with practices of depiction and classification that were profoundly scopophilic in character Drawing on both the visual arts and the depictive practices of the sciences employing conventionalised forms of illustration photography and spatial technologies archaeology presents a paradigm of visualised knowledge However a number of thinkers from Jean Paul Sartre onwards have cautioned that vision presents at once a partial and a politicised way of apprehending the world In this volume authors from archaeology and other disciplines address the problems that face the study of the past in an era in which realist modes of representation and the philosophies in which they are grounded in are increasingly open to question
