Becoming Bilingual in School and Home in Tibetan Areas of China: Stories of Struggle YiXi LaMuCuo,2019-07-09 This book contributes significantly to our understanding of bilingualism and bilingual education as a sociocultural and political process by offering analyses of the stories of five Tibetan individual journeys of becoming bilingual in the Tibetan areas of China at four different points in time from 1950 to the present The data presented comprises the narrative of their bilingual encounters including their experiences of using language in their families in village and in school Opportunities to develop bilingualism were intimately linked with historical and political events in the wider layers of experiences which reveal the complexity of bilingualism Moreover their experiences of developing bilingualism are the stories of struggle to become bilingual They struggle because they want to keep two languages in their lives It illustrates their relationship with society They are Tibetans L1 is not the official language of their country but it is the tie with their ethnicity It addresses bilingualism linked with the formation of identity The unique feature of this book is that it offers a deep understanding of bilingualism and bilingual education by examining the stories of five individuals learning experiences over a period of almost 60 years It'S All About a Name Bernice Berger Miller,2018-03-05 Sixteen year old Juri arrived alone at Ellis Island from Russia His father sent him for a temporary period eager for his son to escape the coming war in 1914 Juri no different from the many other immigrants spoke no English All he had was a brown bag that contained a few pictures and a change of clothes He also had himself In his jacket pocket was a folded piece of paper with the scrawled name and address of a cousin living in Connecticut Maybe it wasn't a cousin at all But the name on the paper gave him a sense of grounding A name gives all things an identification And to a person a name gives an identity Juri rarely followed anyone's instructions but his own From an early age he exercised his independence which usually put him at odds with those around him It was a trait that was strong in the generations before him History or not independence made him comfortable Notwithstanding this trait Juri followed the instructions scrawled on the piece of paper in his pocket He knocked on the door of the family in Connecticut and that was where he started his America journey It took him from Connecticut to Paterson New Jersey where he drove a bakery truck and found two loves a textile mill and the beautiful auburn haired Sadie Cohn To gain approval to marry Sadie the oldest daughter of Adolph and Anna Cohn he promised to work in the Cohns clothing store Adolph Cohn an immigrant himself but of a much longer standing was the first to introduce him to the derogatory term green horn Juri whose name had already been arbitrarily changed to Joseph at Ellis Island started his textile manufacturing company when he left the store job He knew that he did not break his promise to Mr Cohn about working there He had said he would work there but he never said for how long This green horn never one to bother about such insignificant slights took his wife and newborn daughter and moved on Remaining true to himself he moved his textile business from Paterson until the labor union there threatened to make decisions for him That was anathema to him As he moved his business and little family many times building his character and his Joseph Berger reputation he reached out to the only family he knew Sadies many sisters They became the fodder he needed to develop his own family that was to replace the Russian family he thought he had lost His name Joseph Berger signifying his strong and independent character journeyed many miles and many years to surface wonderfully like the sun emerging from behind a cloud And the way it surfaced was indeed wonderful
