Media Mobilization And Human Rights Mediating Suffering:

Media, Mobilization, and Human Rights Tristan Anne Borer, 2012-11-08 What impact do mass media portrayals of atrocities have on activism Why do these news stories sometimes mobilize people while at other times they are met with indifference Do different forms of media have greater or lesser impacts on mobilization These are just some of the questions addressed in Media Mobilization and Human Rights which investigates the assumption that exposure to human rights violations in countries far away causes people to respond with activism Turning a critical eye on existing scholarship which argues either that viewing and reading about violence can serve as a force for good through increased activism or as a source of evil by objectifying and exploiting the victims of violence the authors argue that reality is far more complex and that there is nothing inherently positive or negative about exposure to the suffering of others In exploring this the book offers an array of case studies from human rights reporting in Mexican newspapers to the impact of media imagery on humanitarian intervention in Somalia from the influence of celebrity activism to the growing role of social media By examining a variety of media forms from television and radio to social networking the interdisciplinary set of authors present radical new ways of thinking about the intersection of media portrayals of human suffering and activist responses to them

Information Politics, Protests, and Human Rights in the Digital Age Mahmood Monshipouri, 2016-06-09 We live in a highly complex and evolving world that requires a fuller and deeper understanding of how modern technological tools ideas practices and institutions interact and how different societies adjust themselves to emerging realities of the digital age This book conveys such issues with a fresh perspective and in a systematic and coherent way While many studies have explained in depth the change in the aftermath of the unrests and uprisings throughout the world they rarely mentioned the need for constructing new human rights norms and standards This edited collection provides a balanced conceptual framework to demonstrate not only the power of autonomous communication networks but also their limits and the increasing setbacks they encounter in different contexts Global humanitarianism and media culture Michael Lawrence, Rachel

Tavernor, 2019-01-21 This collection interrogates the representation of humanitarian crisis catastrophe and care Contributors explore the refraction of humanitarian intervention from the mid twentieth century to the present across a diverse range of media forms including screen media film television and online video newspapers memoirs music festivals and social media platforms notably Facebook YouTube and Flickr Examining the historical cultural and political contexts that have shaped the mediation of humanitarian relationships since the middle of the twentieth century the book reveals significant synergies between the humanitarian enterprise the endeavour to alleviate the suffering of particular groups and its media representations particularly in their modes of addressing and appealing to specific publics An electronic edition of this book is freely available under a Creative Commons CC BY NC ND licence Like an Animal: Critical Animal Studies

Approaches to Borders, Displacement, and Othering, 2021-06-17 The contributors of Like an Animal challenge most fundamental concepts in the fields of racism dehumanization borders displacement and refugees that rest on the assumption of humanism They show how we can bend the arc of the moral universe toward justice at the border The goal of this interdisciplinary collection is twofold First to invite border migration studies to consider a broader social justice perspective that includes nonhuman animals Second to start a discussion if nonhumans maybe refugees of a kind and how humans can address nonhumans interests and needs from the perspective of addressing refugee issues As capitalism and the climate crisis are taking a catastrophic toll on the planet this timely volume exposes the alternative origins of violence that lie at the heart of the planet s destruction

Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Child Migrants Mary Grace Antony,Ryan J. Thomas,2017-12-20 As societies grapple with an unprecedented refugee and migration crisis child refugees and migrants who constitute a particularly vulnerable immigrant category have been surprisingly overlooked in immigration scholarship Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Child Migrants Seen but Not Heard addresses this lapse by presenting analyses of child refugees and migrants This comprehensive overview considers the challenges facing young migrants and refugees through richly varied academic perspectives that integrate communication media studies journalism sociology criminology cultural studies international relations and public policy Employing diverse theoretical and methodological lenses this collection addresses the sociopolitical and cultural exigencies prompted by child migrants and refugees engaging a range of academic and policy discussions Relevant to scholars and policymakers alike Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Child Migrants is an integral and foundational text to explore this relatively uncharted region of immigration research

Information in International Law José M. Reis,2024-10-16 Examining state behavior this book sheds light on the often overlooked role of information production and diffusion in international law and relations Most theories of public international law and state behavior rely on a certain degree of international law related information such as an international legal ruling being made public and diffused to reach various key actors such as third states or domestic actors However while assumptions about information being produced and diffused permeate international legal scholarly work these assumptions have not been systematically and empirically evaluated Based on an empirical analysis the author challenges prevailing assumptions by systematically evaluating the accessibility and dissemination of crucial international law related information such as treaty negotiation documents or legal rulings Using a variety of quantitative case studies on key stages of international lawmaking and covering various issue areas from human rights to trade law each chapter traverses three critical levels of analysis namely whether international law information is public and transparent whether the information is salient and reaches the general public and how the information is framed by the media and political elites The book will appeal to students researchers and scholars of law political science and economics as well as policy makers interested in a better understanding of information production and diffusion in international law and the impact of public opinion on compliance with international law

Making Human Rights News John Pollock, Morton Winston, 2018-10-18 Making Human Rights News Balancing Participation and Professionalism explores the impact of new digital technology and activism on the production of human rights messages It is the first collection of studies to combine multidisciplinary approaches citizen witness challenges to journalism ethics and expert assessments of the liberating role of the Internet addressing the following questions 1 What can scholars from a wide range of disciplines including communication studies journalism sociology political science and international relations studies add to traditional legal and political human rights discussions exploring the impact of innovative digital information technologies on the gathering and dissemination of human rights news 2 What questions about journalism ethics and professionalism arise as growing numbers of untrained citizen witnesses use modern mobile technology to document claims of human rights abuses 3 What are the limits of the liberating role of the Internet in challenging traditional sources of authority and credibility such as professional journalists and human rights professionals 4 How do greater Internet access and human rights activism interact with variations in press freedom and government censorship worldwide to promote respect for different categories of human rights such as women's rights and rights to health This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Human Rights The Media and Human Rights Ekaterina

Balabanova, 2014-09-25 In recent years there has been an explosion in the usage and visibility of the language of human rights but what does this mean for the role of the media For evolving ideas about human rights And for the prospect of shared cosmopolitan values Ekaterina Balabanova argues that in order to answer these questions there needs to be a deconstruction of monolithic ways of thinking about the media and human rights incorporating the spectrum of political arguments and worldviews that underpin both Ten case studies are presented which illustrate many of the problems and challenges associated with the relationship between the media and human rights The examples range from cases of humanitarian intervention to analysis of global human rights campaigning on refugee issues from immigration and asylum to genocide freedom of speech and torture Anchored in an appreciation of the political conflicts and compromises at the heart of international human rights agreements The Media and Human Rights is an invaluable resource for students studying media and human rights international politics security studies and political communication The Mass Media as a Mechanism for the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights Kwesi Nyarkoh Koomson, 2016-08-29 Essay from the year 2013 in the subject Communications Mass Media language English abstract There is no generally acceptable definition of Human Rights This is perhaps because Human Rights scholars have different opinions about the concept Human Rights are generally moral rights claimed by everyone and held against everyone especially against those who run social institutions Orend 2002 At the global stage the United Nations UN has for years played a leading role in promoting and protecting human rights with support from International Non governmental Organisations In addition to the effort of the United Nations UN the state has basically been seen as the main actor in the promotion and protection of Human Rights Unfortunately states according to Hakemulder et al 1998 are often the very abuser of the rights of the citizens they are required to protect It is noteworthy however that though the state bears the primary responsibility in issues of human rights other organs of the society are included in the protection and promotion of Human Rights Addo 1999 These organs institutions and mechanisms include constitutions law and legality the courts among others This write up is about to discuss one of such mechanisms the mass media in relation to how it carries out its promotion and protection role of Human Rights Although there are International Human Rights Instruments which the United Nations UN has produced to serve as common standard of achievement of all people countless Human Rights Violations occur locally and across the globe These violations could be committed by the state as well as non state actors Non state actors violate people s Human Rights through direct involvement or indirectly when they consent to such violations Non state actors such as individuals groups informal or organized ad hoc or continuous may pose as violators protectors or intermediaries

Human Rights Journalism and its Nexus to Responsibility to Protect Senthan Selvarajah,2020-11-12 This book takes a holistic approach by capturing the various perspectives and viewpoints concerning the theory and practice of Human Rights Journalism Firstly this book helps fill the epistemological vacuum present in Human Rights Journalism by proposing pragmatic objectivity within the critical constructivist epistemology Secondly it defines the Human Rights Journalism Responsibility to Protect nexus by identifying five key elements Thirdly it proposes a Human Rights Journalism Responsibility to Protect conceptual model which illustrates how an embedded human rights focussed media strategy can be designed Fourthly this book proposes two novel quantitative analysis tools called the Framing Matrix and the Multimodal Discourse Analysis Matrix that are equipped to deal with a big sample size over a long period of time These tools are used to examine the practice of Human Rights Journalism and the typology of news stories of distant sufferings Finally it provides a scientific explanation for those in search of the answer to why one of the worst humanitarian crises in the world which took place in Sri Lanka in 2009 did not create any global compassion or garner attention

Forging Peace Monroe E. Price,Mark Thompson,2002 The bloody conflicts of the past decade have focused international attention on the strategic role of the media in promoting war and perpetuating chaos Written against this backdrop Forging Peace brings together case studies and legal analysis of the steps that the United Nations NATO and other organizations have taken to build pluralist and independent media in the wake of massive human rights violations It examines current thinking on the legality of unilateral humanitarian intervention and analyzes in graphic detail the pioneering use of information intervention techniques in conflict zones ranging from full scale bombardment and confiscation of transmitters to the establishment of new laws and regulatory regimes With its focus on the role of media in preventing human rights violations Forging Peace will influence policy and debate for years to come

The Routledge Companion to Media and Human Rights Howard Tumber,Silvio Waisbord,2017-07-14 The Routledge Companion to Media and Human Rights offers a comprehensive and contemporary survey of the key themes approaches and debates in the field of media and human rights The Companion is the first collection to bring together two distinct ways of thinking about human rights and media including scholarship that examines media as a human right alongside that which looks at media coverage of human rights issues This international collection of 49 newly written pieces thus provides a unique overview of current research in the field while also providing historical context to help students and scholars appreciate how such developments depart from past practices The volume examines the universal principals of freedom of expression legal instruments the right to know media as a human right and the role of media organisations and journalistic work It is organised thematically in five

The Spectatorship of Suffering Lilie Chouliaraki,2006-06-07 The work is on an important topic that has been oft debated but rarely systematically studied the political cultural and moral effects of distant news coverage of suffering The book is extremely well steeped in the relevant literature including semiotics discourse analysis media and social theory and makes a fresh methodological contribution by looking at the codes and formats of news about suffering It has a fresh vision and answer to some of the stickiest moral and media problems of our time and deserves to find its place among important books about the moral aspects of media and society in our times John D Peters F Wendell Miller Distinguished Professor University of Iowa Lilie Chouliaraki grounds her sophisticated arguments in meticulous research The result is a work of important scholarship that might even make us think about the world and its mediation in profoundly new ways Roger Silverstone Professor of Media and Communications The London School of Economics and Political Science Few intellectuals command this scope from classical rhetoric to the cutting edge of contemporary social theory as Lillie Chouliaraki is doing in her new book The Spectatorship of Suffering This book is destined in my mind to be foundational for our understanding of not just the media but of the highly complex social process of mediation Ron Scollon Professor of Linguistics Georgetown University This book is about the relationship between the spectators in countries of the west and the distant sufferer on the television screen the sufferer in Somalia Nigeria Bangladesh India Indonesia but also from New York and Washington DC How do we relate to television images of the distant sufferer This question touches on the ethical role of the media in public life today It addresses the issue of whether the media can cultivate a disposition of care for and engagement with the far away other whether television can create a global public with a sense of social responsibility towards the distant sufferer
