Mediating American Autobiography Photography In Emerson Thoreau Douglass And Whitman:

Mediating American Autobiography Sean Ross Meehan, 2008 The emergence of photography in the mid nineteenth century transformed ideas about how the self and nature could be pictured Although the autobiographical potential of photography seems self evident today Sean Meehan takes us back to the birth of the medium when some of America s preeminent authors began to think about photography s implications for the representation of identity and the nature of autobiographical writing Both photography and autobiography involve a tension between disclosing and concealing their means of production a chemical process for one the writing process for the other Meehan examines how four major authors Ralph Waldo Emerson Henry David Thoreau Frederick Douglass and Walt Whitman were well aware of this tension and explored it in their work By examining the implications of early photography in their writings he shows how each engaged the new visual medium how photography mediated their conceptions of self representation and how their appropriation of photographic thinking created a new kind of autobiography Examining the metonymic nature of photography Meehan explores how the new medium influenced conceptions of visual and verbal representation He intertwines these four writers reflections on photography in Emerson s Representative Men Thoreau s journals Douglass s narratives of slavery and Whitman s Specimen Days with theories of photography as expounded by its inventors and observers from Louis Daguerre and William Talbot in Europe to Oliver Wendell Holmes and Marcus Root in America As the first book to focus on the emergence of this new visual medium during the American Renaissance Mediating American Autobiography shows us what photography means for American literature in general and for the genre most closely linked to it in particular Because the engagement of these writers with photography has been neglected in previous scholarship Meehan s work provocatively bridges the study of two media and illuminates an important aspect of American thought and culture at the dawn of the technological era

Mediating American Autobiography Sean Ross Meehan, 2008 Examines works by Ralph Waldo Emerson Henry David Thoreau Frederick Douglass and Walt Whitman to explore how the emergence of photography in the mid nineteenth century transformed their ideas how photography mediated their conceptions of self representation and how their appropriation of photographic thinking created a new kind of autobiography Provided by publisher The Photographer and the President Richard Lowry, 2015-05-26 A new angle on Lincoln and his legacy exploring the rich and suggestive dialogue between art image and politics at the time of the Civil War Abraham Lincoln was one of the most photographed figures of his century Richard Lowry explores Lincoln s association with Alexander Gardner the man who would create the most memorable and ultimately iconic images of the president both in his studio and on the battlefields of the Civil War Lowry s book is an accessible and lively narrative of this symbiotic relationship and an examination of the emerging role of the media at a moment of national transformation Lincoln was an early adopter of photographic technology and visionary in how he used it as FDR was with radio JFK with television and Obama with the internet By highlighting this very modern aspect of such a storied presidency Lowry opens a new door on Lincoln's relationship to politics and celebrity just as the mass culture of the image was taking root in America Snapshots of the Soul Molly Thomasy

Blasing, 2021-07-15 Snapshots of the Soul considers how photography has shaped Russian poetry from the early twentieth century to the present day Drawing on theories of the lyric and the elegy the social history of technology and little known archival materials Molly Thomasy Blasing offers close readings of poems by Boris Pasternak Marina Tsvetaeva Joseph Brodsky and Bella Akhmadulina as well as by the late and post Soviet poets Andrei Sen Sen kov Arkadii Dragomoshchenko and Kirill Medvedev to understand their fascination with the visual language representational power and metaphorical possibilities offered by the camera and the photographic image Within the context of long standing anxieties about the threat that visual media pose to literary culture Blasing finds that these poets were attracted to the affinities and tensions that exist between the lyric or elegy and the snapshot Snapshots of the Soul reveals that at the core of each poet's approach to writing the photograph is the urge to demonstrate the superior ability of poetic language to capture and convey human experience Open Access edition funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities Turning Points Ansgar Nünning, Kai Marcel Sicks, 2012-10-30

At times of crisis and revolution such as ours diagnoses of crucial junctures and ruptures turning points in the continuous flow of history are more prevalent than ever Analysing literary cinematic and other narratives the volume seeks to understand the meanings conveyed by different concepts of turning points the alternative concepts to which they are opposed when used to explain historical change and those contexts in which they are unmasked as false and over simplifying constructions Literature and film in particular stress the importance of turning points as a sensemaking device as part of a character's or a community's cultural memory while at the same time unfolding the constructive and hence relative character of turning points Offering complex reflections on the notion of turning points literary and filmic narratives are thus of particular interest to the present volume Building Their Own Waldos Robert D.
