Reporting the EU John Lloyd, Cristina Marconi, 2014-09-30 In recent years media coverage of the European Union has faced its most serious test The interlinked crises in the Union have severely tested the expertise of the EU press corps many of whom have struggled to cope with its complexities and have thrown into sharper relief the differences among the national coverages At the same time the crises have deepened trends towards euro scepticism in many EU member states thus putting pressure on correspondents to be more sceptical analytical argumentative and even hostile in their reporting This development has revealed a greater gulf between reporters who are now more sceptical than their predecessors and the press service and officials of the EU who remain strongly committed to the narrative of an ever closer union Yet in contrast to the rising euro scepticism the crises have emphasised the need perceived by European officials and many European politicians for deeper integration at least among Euro currency members to cope with the crisis This book based on extensive interviews with EU correspondents editors public relations and other EU executives will reveal for the first time how this powerful group of institutions at the heart of the Union are covered or are not covered The analysis and critique of the present coverage also carries a series of recommendations on how it might be made to better serve the citizens of the EU members The authors highlight the structural and historic difficulties in covering a multinational institution and the struggle generally unsuccessful to develop a journalism which can fully hold the institutions to account and find an audience which goes beyond the narrow circles of professionals and politicians who are closely concerned with the business of the Union European Politics Tim world system Considerable attention is paid to unpacking notions of a transnational public sphere global civil society and solidarity and examining the role that media play in structuring both potentially hegemonic practices as well as alternative practices The second half clusters a variety of case studies exploring different facets of the dynamics of globalisation Three chapters focus on specific media forms such as the examination of music language and news A last chapter explores the notion of solidarity in a different way how international organisations such as Amnesty can try to influence the news agenda to mobilise transnational public sympathy for an oppressed group specifically street children in Brazil The introduction and conclusion each written by one of the editors provide contextualisation and development of the debates and focus on further issues for theoretical development and empirical research
