Parloa's New Cook Book and Marketing Guide Maria Parloa,2015-06-14 Excerpt from Miss Parloa s New Cook Book and Marketing Guide Revised Edition When the author wrote the Appledore Cook Book nine years ago she had seen so many failures and so much consequent mortification and dissatisfaction as to determine her to give those minute directions which were so often wanting in cook books and without which success in preparing dishes was for many a person unattainable It seemed then unwise to leave much to the cook s judgment and experience in lecturing and in teaching in her school since that time has satisfied the author that what was given in her first literary work was what was needed In this book an endeavor has been made to again supply what is desired to have the directions and descriptions clear complete and concise Especially has this been the case in the chapter on Marketing Much more of interest might have been written but the hope which led to brevity was that the few pages devoted to remarks on that important household duty and which contain about all that the average cook or housekeeper cares and needs to know will be carefully read It is believed that there is much in them of considerable value to those whose knowledge of meats fish and vegetables is not extensive much that would help to an intelligent selection of the best provisions Of the hundreds of recipes in the volume only a few were not prepared especially for it and nearly all of these were taken by the author from her other books About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Miss Parloa's New Cook Book Maria Parloa,2005-08

Miss Parloa's New Cook Book Maria Parloa,2018-08-14 Miss Parloa s New Cook Book by Maria Parloa Upon the amount of practical knowledge of marketing that the housekeeper has the comfort and expense of the family are in a great measure dependent therefore every head of a household should acquire as much of this knowledge as is practicable and the best way is to go into the market Then such information as is gained by reading becomes of real value Many think the market not a pleasant or proper place for ladies The idea is erroneous My experience has been that there are as many gentlemen among marketmen as are to be found engaged in any other business One should have a regular place at which to trade as time is saved and disappointment obviated If not a judge of meat it is advisable when purchasing to tell the dealer so and rely upon him to do well by you He will probably give you a nicer piece than you could have chosen If a housekeeper makes a practice of going to the market herself she is able to supply her table with a better variety than she is by ordering at the door or by note for she sees many good and fresh articles that would not have been thought of at home In a book like this it is possible to treat at length only of such things as meat fish and vegetables which always form a large item of expense We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience
