The Return of the O'Mahony Harold Frederic, 2019-12-18 In Harold Frederic's novel The Return of the O'Mahony readers are immersed in a compelling narrative that intertwines themes of identity, belonging, and the struggle between tradition and modernity. Set against the backdrop of 19th-century America, the book utilizes a rich descriptive literary style that evokes the era's complexities, drawing heavily on Frederic's nuanced understanding of both Irish immigrant culture and American societal dynamics. The story follows the protagonist, an Irish American man grappling with his dual heritage as he returns to his roots, embodying a broader exploration of cultural assimilation and the quest for self-discovery. Frederic, an American author born to Irish descent, brings a unique sensibility to his writing, informed by his own experiences as a journalist and a resident of England. His intimate understanding of the challenges faced by immigrants, particularly during a time of social upheaval, undoubtedly influenced his portrayal of the O'Mahony family's struggles and triumphs. Frederic's dual perspective enables him to bridge worlds, reflecting the cultural tensions that defined his era. For readers interested in literature that probes the depths of human experience and cultural dislocation, The Return of the O'Mahony offers a captivating exploration of identity and belonging. Frederic's deft storytelling and profound character development make this novel a compelling read that resonates with contemporary discussions about immigrant experiences and the enduring search for one's place in the world.

Jung and Film II: The Return Christopher Hauke, Luke Hockley, 2012-05-23 Since Jung and Film was first published in 2001, Jungian writing on the moving image in film and television has accelerated. Jung and Film II: The Return provides new contributions from authors across the globe, willing to tackle the broader issues of film production and consumption, the audience, and the place of film culture in our lives. As well as chapters dealing with particular film makers such as Maya Derren and films such as Birth, The Piano, The Wrestler, and Breaking the Wave, there is also a unique chapter co-written by documentary film maker Tom Hurvitz and New York Jungian analyst Margaret Klenck. Other areas of discussion include the way in which psychological issues come under scrutiny in many movies, the various themes that concern Jungian writers on film, how Jungian ideas on psychological personality types can be applied in fresh ways to analyse a variety of characters. The book also includes a glossary to help readers with Jungian words and concepts. Jung and Film II is not only a welcome companion to the first volume; it is an important stand-alone work essential for all academics and students of analytical psychology as well as film, media, and cultural studies.
