Department of Economic and Social Affairs,1965     From Program to Performance Budgeting Mr.Jack Diamond,2003-09-16

Many emerging market economies are trying to improve their budget processes and move to performance based budgeting This paper first reviews the evolution of the new performance budgeting model increasingly being applied in industrial countries By identifying its main components the tasks faced by emerging market economies when converting their present budget systems to this model are determined It is recognized that this conversion will not be easy and will require four major reform elements First any existing program structure must be set in the wider context of strategic budget planning and medium term budget frameworks Second this typically involves redesigning and refining existing program structures Third existing budget costing systems and associated skills will probably need to be improved Fourth and perhaps most difficult a new system of accountability and budget incentives needs to be introduced For emerging market economies these should be viewed as the prerequisites for a successful introduction of the new performance budgeting model     A Manual for Programme and Performance Budgeting; Revised Draft, for Internal Use Only United Nations. Department of Economic and Social Affairs,1962     The International Handbook of Public Financial Management Richard Allen,Richard Hemming,B.
