

Chapter 11

Capital Budgeting Decisions

Solutions to Questions

11-1 A capital budgeting screening decision is concerned with whether a proposed investment project passes a preset hurdle, such as a 15% rate of return. A capital budgeting preference decision is concerned with choosing from among two or more alternative investment projects, each of which has passed the hurdle.

11-2 The "time value of money" refers to the fact that a dollar received today is more valuable than a dollar received in the future simply because a dollar received today can be invested to yield more than a dollar in the future.

11-3 Discounting is the process of computing the present value of a future cash flow. Discounting gives recognition to the time value of money and makes it possible to meaningfully add together cash flows that occur at different times.

11-4 Accounting net income is based on accruals rather than on cash flows. Both the net present value and internal rate of return methods focus on cash flows.

11-5 Unlike other common capital budgeting methods, discounted cash flow methods recognize the time value of money and take into account all future cash flows.

11-6 Net present value is the present value of cash inflows less the present value of the cash outflows. The net present value can be negative if the present value of the outflows is greater than the present value of the inflows.

11-7 One assumption is that all cash flows occur at the end of a period. Another is that all cash inflows are immediately reinvested at a rate of return equal to the discount rate.

11-8 No. The cost of capital is not simply the interest paid on long-term debt. The cost of capital is a weighted average of the costs of all sources of financing, both debt and equity.

11-9 The cost of capital is a hurdle that must be cleared before an investment project will be accepted. (a) In the case of the net present value method, the cost of capital is used as the discount rate. If the net present value of the project is positive, then the project is acceptable because its rate of return is greater than the cost of capital. (b) In the case of the internal rate of return method, the cost of capital is compared to a project's internal rate of return. If the project's internal rate of return is greater than the cost of capital, then the project is acceptable.

11-10 No. As the discount rate increases, the present value of a given future cash flow decreases. For example, the present value factor for a discount rate of 12% for cash to be received ten years from now is 0.322, whereas the present value factor for a discount rate of 14% over the same period is 0.270. If the cash to be received in ten years is $10,000, the present value in the first case is $3,220, but only $2,700 in the second case. Thus, as the discount rate increases, the present value of a given future cash flow decreases.

11-11 The internal rate of return is more than 14% because the net present value is positive. The internal rate of return would be 14% only if the net present value (evaluated using a 14% discount rate) is zero. The internal rate of return would be less than 14% if the net present value (evaluated using a 14% discount rate) is negative.
