Critical Research Methodologies ,2021-02-08 We live in a society that promotes the universal process of producing knowledge and truth making as fundamental social process Such promotion of universality seems to subjugate others forms of knowing rendering them invisible unintelligible and ineligible and subsequently outside the community of knowing This has material and symbolic consequences in terms of how research informs policy and subsequent victimization of those who live and experience subjugation meted by Western truth making universalism In the words of Foucault this book is an insurrection of subterranean and clandestine knowledges in ways that provide not just an alternative process of knowledge production but affirms local knowledge as necessary in production of a just society The book looks at research as a social justice and transformational process that should speak of people's ways of life without necessarily streamlining them into numbers. The book is a critically reflexive project in terms of returning processes of knowledge production to the local space rather than imagining them as entirely centred in the structure. To imagine this book as reflexive exercise is to break boundaries of knowledges in ways that come to imagine how local performs global in very complicated and complex ways. This book is a resurrection of local knowledges steeped in creative and imaginative reflexive methodologies that come to reorient how we come to know what we know the values and realities that mark what we know and the how of knowledge production. It centres subjugated voices and knowledges as fundamental in production of knowledge. Contributors include Katie Bannon, Elizabeth Charles, Khulood Agha Khan, Dionisio Nyaga, Fritz Pino and Rose Ann Torres. Mental Health Nursing Gylo (Julie) Hercelinskyj, Louise Alexander, 2019-07-30. Mental Health Nursing: Applying Theory to Practice is a new Australian text combining a theoretical approach to mental health nursing with clinical reasoning and a practical framework for real life nursing situations. Ideal for both clinical and theory mental health course units, the text was developed with input from consumers and clinicians and includes the clinical manifestations, impacts, treatment and management of persons suffering from mental illness. Chapters on suicide and self-harm and Mental Health First Aid provide detailed coverage of these contemporary mental health issues, while a chapter on mental state examination (MSE) comprehensively explores MSE in a style similar to a traditional psychiatry text and in the context of many different mental health conditions, giving students multiple perspectives of presentations. Critical thinking and review questions challenge students to apply theory to practice and pharmacology is discussed in each disorder chapter, helping students to contextualise their learning. With coverage of the Mental Health Act 2014 and criteria from the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders Fifth Edition (DSM 5) integrated throughout the text, it equips students with a working understanding of major mental health disorders and the ability to work practically when engaging with persons suffering from mental illness. New print versions of this book come with bonus online study tools on the CourseMate Express and Search Me Nursing platforms. The Psychology of Humor Rod A. Martin, Thomas Ford, 2018-07-14.
