McLaughlin, 2024-07-30 The Routledge Companion to Migration Literature offers a comprehensive survey of an increasingly important field It demonstrates the influence of the age of migration on literature and showcases the role of literature in shaping socio-political debates and creating knowledge about the migratory trajectories lives and experiences that have shaped the post-1989 world The contributors examine a broad range of literary texts and critical approaches that cover the spectrum between voluntary and forced migration In doing so they reflect the shift in recent years from the author-centric study of migrant writing to a more inclusive conception of migration literature The book contains sections on key terms and critical approaches in the field important genres of migration literature a range of forms and trajectories of migration with a particular focus on the global South and on migration literature's relevance in social contexts outside the academy Its range of scholarly voices on literature from different geographical contexts and in different languages is central to its call for and contribution to a pluriversal turn in literary migration studies in future scholarship This Companion will be of particular interest to scholars working on contemporary migration literature and it also offers an introduction to new students and scholars from other fields Chapter 15 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non-Commercial No Derivatives CC BY-NC-ND 4.0 license

Rights of the Child, Mothers and Sentencing Alice Macharia, 2021-02-22 This book draws international attention to the autonomy of the child accompanying incarcerated mothers and those they leave behind in the community despite being dependent on the convicted caregiver Adopting a child rights perspective the study explores how courts could go about sentencing mothers of young children for the commission of criminal offences whilst protecting the rights of the child as envisaged under the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child UNCRC Drawing on the author's experience as a sentencer in the Kenyan court and with reference to domestic regional and international law the book argues that children's rights are presently left in abeyance when their mothers are sentenced to imprisonment and that greater efforts should be made to recognize and give effect to the child's existence as an autonomous equal holder of human rights despite being dependent on the convicted caregiver It explores the application of precedence as well as the court's discretion in view of the dependent child and concludes that policy reform in this respect calls for change in attitude and approach on women and children's issues Observing that internationally most women imprisoned with their children fall beneath the custodial threshold set by law the research examines how current sentencing practices could be reformed and suggests harnessing the

Power of Mercy Committee the Sentencing Guidelines and progressive practices from developed countries in protecting the child's rights by imposing non custodial sentences for the offending mothers It is concluded that in all jurisdictions strict accountability for the dependent child should be situated with the judiciary and that the same should be pronounced as a mandatory legal requirement The book will be a valuable resource for academic researchers and policy makers working in the area of international children's rights law and criminal law
