Wearable Solar Cell Systems Denise Wilson, 2019-11-25 Smartwatch Fitness tracker Portable ECG Smartphone Posture monitor Hearing aid MP3 player E reader Wireless headset Hiking watch Gaming headset Sleep monitor Laptop computer Tablet. Indeed, a dizzying array of portable and wearable electronic devices is available to the modern consumer. Not surprisingly, as the number of devices an individual chooses to wear or carry increases, so does the energy required to power those devices. Judging by the increasing popularity of portable power banks waiting to recharge many of these devices using standard wall outlets is no longer a standard practice. Wearable Solar Cell Systems looks at the possibilities for supporting the energy demand of these devices without the need to return to the dreaded wall outlet for recharging. While crystalline silicon dominates world markets, second or third generation solar cell technologies may be more suitable to wearable systems. Array size, architecture, and management must also be chosen to best serve portable and wearable devices and harvest light energy from different light sources under a broad range of input conditions. This book is intended to serve a wide audience, from students who desire a basic introduction to solar photovoltaic cell technology to professionals seeking a holistic picture of wearable solar cells and systems.

Big data and deep learning in particular are receiving a lot of attention in this rapidly growing digital health community. A key benefit of deep learning is to analyze and learn massive amounts of data which makes it especially valuable in healthcare since raw data is largely gathered from personalized wearable health devices. A wide range of users may benefit from unobstructed and even remote monitoring of pertinent or vital signs which makes it easier to detect life threatening diseases early track the progression of pathologies and stress levels evaluate the efficacy of therapies provide low cost and reliable diagnoses etc. Today's personal health devices have provided an amazing insight into people's health and wellness which allow clinicians to use these smart wearables to collect and analyze measuring data like electroencephalogram (EEG) electrocardiogram (ECG) or EKG respiration heart rate temperature level blood oxygen and blood pressure for health monitoring or clinical trials. This Research Topic mainly focuses on the technical revolution in wearable health systems which aims to design more smart and useful wearables contributing to a substantial change in the methodologies applications and algorithms of machine learning for wearable health devices. With the help of deep learning and sensor fusion capabilities from wearable health platforms this data will be used more effectively which can help to construct smart novel specific solutions to improve the quality of healthcare and capabilities of utilizing new deep learning technologies Business Korea, 1986
