Generative AI in Neurodegenerative Disorders Anindya Nag, Md. Mehedi Hassan, Asif Karim, Kishor Kumar Reddy C, 2025-10-14 This book delves into the transformative power of AI in the realm of neurodegenerative diseases covering topics such as ALS Huntington's Parkinson's and Alzheimer's. Generative AI provides new opportunities for early diagnosis precise therapy and individualized rehabilitation which are crucial as these conditions remain major obstacles for healthcare providers and researchers. Researchers physicians AI developers and healthcare professionals will find this book an invaluable resource for understanding how AI is influencing the development of treatments for neurodegenerative diseases. It describes important obstacles and future directions while providing insights into the newest breakthroughs thus bridging the gap between technology and practical clinical applications. Anyone involved in neurodegenerative healthcare from scientists conducting AI driven medical research to physicians seeking to incorporate AI into patient care or AI professionals investigating new healthcare applications will find the information and insights they need in this comprehensive book. Predictive analytics biomarker identification and drug discovery are being transformed by AI driven models such as deep neural networks generative adversarial networks GANs and variational autoencoders VAEs. This book offers a comprehensive examination of these developments. Robots wearable sensors and cognitive therapy platforms are some of the AI enhanced rehabilitation tools covered as are AI integrated cutting edge technologies like fMRI and MRI gene editing methods like CRISPR and more. In addition to discussing recent technical developments this book takes a close look at the data privacy ethics and regulatory issues that arise when using AI to study neurodegenerative disorders. Issues like algorithmic bias model explainability and fair AI driven healthcare are thoroughly investigated in light of the growing usage of AI models in clinical decision making mental health applications and cognitive rehabilitation.

Mental Health, Epidemiology and Machine Learning Marcos Del Pozo Banos,Robert Stewart,Ann John,2025-01-23 Mental health disorders are underlain by a wide diversity of influencing factors and they exert their impact across multiple domains in a patient's life. As such, mental health research has greatly benefited from the proliferation of large and diverse databanks with many and new types of data often covering a large sample of or even whole populations. However, traditional epidemiological and statistical techniques have proven to be insufficient to tackle the complexity of mental illness. While such data have spurred important advances in the area of mental health, they have also introduced new limitations that risk stalling progress. In this context, machine learning provides in theory novel opportunities to leverage the potential of databanks and propel population mental health research forward. Indeed, after a slower introduction compared to other health specialties, the popularity of machine learning in this field has soared in recent years. Unfortunately, on many occasions, the use of machine learning has overshadowed epidemiological practice, thus limiting the production of results that have genuine clinical relevance. Without careful integration, there is a real risk of losing the trust and confidence that machine learning has slowly gained within the clinical field.

EU Policy and Legal Framework for Artificial Intelligence, Robotics and Related Technologies - The AI Act Nikos Th.

Nikolinakos, 2023-07-06 Artificial Intelligence (AI) can benefit our society and economy but also brings with it new challenges and raises legal and ethical questions. According to the author of this comprehensive analysis, it is imperative to ensure that AI is developed and applied in an appropriate legal and regulatory framework that promotes innovation and investment and at the same time addresses the risks associated with certain uses of AI-related technologies. Essential to understanding the relationship between policy and law, this book traces the evolution of EU policy on artificial intelligence and robotics, focusing in particular on the EU's ethical framework for AI, which defines trust as a prerequisite for ensuring a human-centric approach. The main part of the book provides a thorough and systematic analysis of the Commission's 2021 proposed AI Act, which establishes harmonised rules for the development, placement on the market, and use of AI systems in the EU. The author painstakingly compares the Commission's proposed AI Act with the numerous compromise proposals of the Council of the European Union, leading to the final version of the Council's AI Act, general approach, and its formal adoption on 6 December 2022. The author also examines with extraordinary detail the amendments proposed by the relevant committees and political groups of the European Parliament, revealing the position the Parliament is likely to adopt in the forthcoming negotiations with the Commission and the Council on the text of the AI Act. Numerous legislative and policy documents are presented in detail, while the analysis also considers the comments made by all interested parties, e.g. the European Commission, Council of the European Union, European Parliament, governmental organisations, national competent authorities, and stakeholders/actors with different conflicting interests, such as corporations, business, and consumer associations, civil society, and other non-profit organisations. In the course of its in-depth analysis, this book will provide readers with crucial insight into the reasons behind the European Institutions different approaches and the often contradictory interests of stakeholders Because the policy arguments are carefully balanced and drafted with scrupulous care this volume will establish itself as a reference resource to be consulted for years to come Health: Teacher edition Linda Brower Meeks,1987
