

How Migration and Poverty relate to each other?

01

This relationship is bidirectional.

Poverty can reduce or prevent migration

Migration can reduce or prevent poverty

Let's understand this better

Migration can be a way out of poverty

Migration can serve as a way out of poverty when people move in search of better social and economic opportunities

Some migration causes or deepens poverty

Forced migration or migration on adverse terms, such as bonded labour, could be a route to extreme poverty.

Poverty inhibits international migration

People living in extreme poverty are more likely to migrate within their countries of origin or to other low-and-middle income countries (LMICs) where prospects of poverty reduction may be lower.

Poverty can prevent migration

Migration requires financial, social, and human capital resources. People experiencing poverty may aspire to move but lack the capacity to do so.

02

Busting the myths

MYTH 1

Only people experiencing poverty or adversity migrate

In 2020

2/3 of international migrants were migrant workers

Only

3.6%

are from low-income countries

This figure reveals that a big portion of people moving for work are from middle- or high-income countries.

MYTH 2

Europe and North America are destinations for most refugees

In 2020

3.4 m

refugees migrated to the Islamic Republic of Iran and Turkey each, largest populations worldwide.

Germany, France, and the UK

Germany was third with 2.8 million, followed by Colombia with slightly less than 2.8 million.

Pakistan hosted 2.3 million refugees.

MYTH 3

Refugees make up the largest number of migrants

In 2020

59.1 m

people had migrated internally within their own countries.

There were an estimated

27.1 m

refugees globally making them the smallest share of international migrants.

MYTH 4

Intra-region migration is minimal

In 2020

Around

1/3 of all international migrants

moved within their region of origin, with Southern Africa having the largest share of intra-regional migration.

Europe

63%

of all cross-border migration is from other European countries.

03

Knowledge Gap

Lack of high-quality data in this area of extreme poverty research.

Focus is often on international migration when international migration is likely for greater and strongly linked to poverty.

Lack of focus on intra-region migration (from one LMIC country to another).

Challenges faced in estimating trends in migration due to competing definitions of who counts as a migrant, and underreporting of irregular migration.

Focus on research that could narrow these knowledge gaps will help make better policy decisions around poverty and migration.

Migration And Poverty Migration And Poverty:

Migration and Poverty Edmundo Murrugarra, Jennica Larrison, Marcin Sasin, 2010-11-24 This volume uses recent research from the World Bank to document and analyze the bidirectional relationship between poverty and migration in developing countries The case studies chapters compiled in this book from Tanzania Nepal Albania and Nicaragua as well as the last policy oriented chapter illustrate the diversity of migration experience and tackle the complicated nexus between migration and poverty reduction Two main messages emerge Although evidence indicates that migration reduces poverty it also shows that migration opportunities of the poor differ from that of the rest In general the evidence suggests that the poor either migrate less or migrate to low return destinations As a consequence many developing countries are not maximizing the poverty reducing potential of migration The main reason behind this outcome is difficulties in access to remunerative migration opportunities and the high costs associated with migrating It is shown for example that reducing migration costs makes migration more pro poor The volume shows that developing countries governments are not without means to improve this situation Several of the country examples offer a few policy recommendations towards this end Migration,

Remittances, Poverty, and Human Capital Marcin J. Sasin, David McKenzie, 2007 This paper reviews common challenges faced by researchers interested in measuring the impact of migration and remittances on income poverty inequality and human capital or in general welfare as well as difficulties confronting development practitioners in converting this research into policy advice On the analytical side the paper discusses the proper formulation of a research question the choice of the analytical tools as well as the interpretation of the results in the presence of pervasive endogeneity in all decisions surrounding migration Particular attention is given to the use of instrumental variables in migration research On the policy side the paper argues that the private nature of migration and remittances implies a need to carefully spell out the rationale for interventions It also notices the lack of good migration data and proper evaluations of migration related government policies The paper focuses mainly on microeconomic evidence about international migration but much of the discussion extends to other settings as well Work-related Migration and Poverty Reduction in Nepal Michael Lokshin, Mikhail Bontch-Osmolovski, Elena E. Glinskaya, 2007 Using two rounds of nationally representative household survey data in this study the authors measure the impact on poverty in Nepal of local and international migration for work They apply an instrumental variable approach to deal with nonrandom selection of migrants and simulate various scenarios for the different levels of work related migration comparing observed and counterfactual household expenditure distribution The results indicate that one fifth of the poverty reduction in Nepal occurring between 1995 and 2004 can be attributed to increased levels of work related migration and remittances sent home The authors also show that while the increase in work migration abroad was the leading cause of this poverty reduction internal migration also played an important role The findings show that strategies for economic growth and poverty reduction in Nepal should consider aspects of the dynamics of domestic and international migration Migration, Development and Poverty Reduction in Asia Iom International Organization For Migration,2008 Poverty and International Migration Şebnem Eroğlu,2022-10-03 This book examines the poverty outcomes for three generations of settler migrants spanning multiple European destinations as compared with their returnee and stayer counterparts living in Turkey Poverty, Gender and Migration Sadhna Arya,Anupama Roy,2006-03-09 This volume studies the new migratory flows among Asian women focusing particularly on poverty and the attendant issues of powerlessness that mediate women s migration While gender provides the conceptual tool for mapping differential experiences of social reality by identifying poverty and migration as significant axes around which social relations and processes unfold the volume unravels the complex layers of needs networks and choices that come into play in poverty driven migration Work-Related Migration and Poverty Reduction in Nepal Michael Lokshin,Mikhail Bontch-Osmolovski,Elena Glinskaya,2015 Poverty, International Migration and Asylum G. Borjas,J. Crisp,2005-03-01 This book examines the economic consequences of immigration and asylum migration it focuses on the economic consequences of legal and illegal immigration as well as placing the study of immigration in a global context Migration and Poverty Alleviation in China Dewen Wang,Fang Cai,International Organization for Migration,2007 China has achieved remarkable progress in poverty alleviation since the start of its reform process with rural poverty having dropped from 30 7 per cent in 1978 to 2 6 per cent in 2005 Rural urban labour migration on an unprecedented scale played a vital role in rural income growth poverty reduction and economic development Empirical evidence shows that while the vast rural to urban migration does not significantly increase urban income poverty labour market discrimination and social exclusion expose rural migrants to many risks and vulnerabilities in the cities where the poor are becoming increasingly marginalised Capacity building for the poor the adoption of an integrated labour market system that also takes account of migrants and the creation a of rural social security system are the three important poverty alleviation options promoted by the government Although migration in China has unique institutional characteristics owing to the existence of the hukou system Household Registration System the experience of China has important lessons for our understanding of the impact of migration on development and poverty reduction Migration, Poverty, and Inequality: Evidence from Burkina Faso F.S. Wouterse,2008 Migrants, Livelihoods and Rights Arjan de Haan,2000 Argues that policies should aim to support migration and recognize the centrality of migration for the households livelihoods Based on a description of the complex composition of migration streams the effects of migration and the idea of migration as a social process International Migration, Remittances, and Poverty in Developing Countries Richard H. Adams,John Page,2003 International Migration, Remittances, and Poverty in Developing Countries John Page,2016 Few studies have examined the impact of international migration and remittances on poverty in a broad cross section of developing countries Adams and Page try to fill this gap by constructing a new data set on poverty international migration and remittances for 74 low and middle income developing countries Four key findings emerge International migration defined as the share of a country's population living abroad has a strong statistical impact in reducing poverty On average a 10 percent increase in the share of international migrants in a country's population will lead to a 1.9 percent decline in the share of people living in poverty 1.00 a person a day Distance to a major labor receiving region like the United States or OECD Europe has an important effect on international migration Developing countries that are located closest to the United States or OECD Europe are also those countries with the highest rates of migration An inverted U shaped curve exists between the level of country per capita income and international migration Developing countries with low or high per capita GDP produce smaller shares of international migrants than do middle income developing countries The authors find no evidence that developing countries with higher levels of poverty produce more migrants Because of considerable travel costs associated with international migration international migrants come from those income groups which are just above the poverty line in middle income developing countries International remittances defined as the share of remittances in country GDP have a strong statistical impact in reducing poverty On average a 10 percent increase in the share of international remittances in a country's GDP will lead to a 1.6 percent decline in the share of people living in poverty This paper a product of the Poverty Reduction Group Poverty Reduction and Economic Management Network is part of a larger effort in the network to understand better how international migration and remittances affect poverty in developing countries
