

Dramatic rituals of Suhagraat (Wedding Night)

1. Popular first night traditions of an Indian wedding

Wedding may be a universal celebration, but sometimes it becomes an unbelievably crazy adventure. Though the Indian weddings today are changing rapidly, the traditional approach is still maintained in most of the Indian families. Even the first night that the bride and the groom spend together as newlyweds is also ruled by many traditional stereotypes. As you read through this list of strange wedding night (Suhagraat) customs just think to yourself - who's the weird one?

2. Superstitions run rampant

For all the beliefs that lead to nice traditions, there are ten times as many superstitions that would make for a strange wedding night. And it's not just us...there are not-so-logical Suhagraat customs that are followed all across the world. One says that pound of Limburger cheese placed under the pillows of the newlyweds on their wedding night will bring lots of children. It's hard to imagine that smelly cheese could be that much of an aphrodisiac!

3. Superstitions run rampant

There's another great one that says the first person to go to sleep on your wedding night will be the first to die. just what everyone wants to think about on the happiest day of their lives: their own death!

4. Floral decoration

It has been an age-old tradition that the couple's room be decorated with heavily fragrant, fresh flowers for their suhagraat. It is believed that the sweet, natural fragrance of the flowers creates a romantic mood for the couples to begin the new chapter in their life together. Usually the preferred flowers are rajnigandha (tuberose), roses and jasmines as these have an exotic aroma, and are believed to leave an aphrodisiac effect on the couple.
