Freedom from Religion and Human Rights Law Marika McAdam, 2017-11-14 Although human rights belong to all persons on the basis of their humanity this book demonstrates that in the practice of international human rights law the freedom to be non religious or atheist does not receive the same protection as the freedom to be religious Despite the claimed universality of freedom of religion and belief contained in article 18 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights the key assertion made is that there is a hierarchy of religion and belief with followers of major established religions enjoying high protection and low regulation at the top and atheists and non believers enduring high persecution and weaker protection at the bottom The existence of this hierarchy is proven and critiqued through three case study chapters that respectively explore the extent to which non religious and atheist rights holders enjoy freedom from proselytism freedom from hate and freedom from the religions of their parents

Gender Hurts Sheila Jeffreys, 2014-04-24 It is only recently that transgenderism has been accepted as a disorder for which treatment is available In the 1990s a political movement of transgender activism coalesced to campaign for transgender rights Considerable social political and legal changes are occurring in response and there is increasing acceptance by governments and many other organisations and actors of the legitimacy of these rights This provocative and controversial book explores the consequences of these changes and offers a feminist perspective on the ideology and practice of transgenderism which the author sees as harmful It explores the effects of transgenderism on the lesbian and gay community the partners of people who transgender children who are identified as transgender and the people who transgender themselves and argues that these are negative In doing so the book contends that the phenomenon is based upon sex stereotyping referred to as gender a conservative ideology that forms the foundation for women s subordination Gender Hurts argues for the abolition of gender which would remove the rationale for transgenderism This book will be of interest to scholars and students of political science feminism and feminist theory and gender studies

Corridors of Contagion Victoria Law, 2024-09-10 Tracing the narratives of five incarcerated individuals Sentenced to COVID speaks to the devastating impact of surviving the pandemic inside prison walls Corridors of Contagion brings to light the experiences of five people incarcerated across the United States as they navigate the onset of the pandemic and the many months stretched into years that followed Journalist Victoria Law combines this storytelling with a trenchant analysis of the structural failures of the US carceral system failures that made prisons uniquely vulnerable to COVID 19 outbreaks from overcrowding to solitary confinement from insufficient healthcare to life sentences The book portrays the horrors of continual lockdowns not in the comfort of one s own home but in prisons where routine violence and chaos is made even more unimaginable by the complete lack of control over protection from a terrifying and lethal new virus The pandemic provided an opportunity for lawmakers and policy makers to rethink the nation's addiction to perpetual punishment. Instead, US jails and prisons doubled down on punishment under the guise of pandemic protections. As a result, people behind bars experienced increased stress, mental health challenges increased, violence and higher rates of deaths, many of which could have been prevented. While the pandemic emergency has been declared over, we are continuing to learn more about the extent of its destruction. Corridors of Contagion reminds readers about both the particular horrors experienced by people in cages and the continued role of the US as the world's prison nation.

The Routledge Handbook of Critical Public Relations Jacquie L'Etang, David McKie, Nancy Snow, Jordi Xifra, 2015-08-11 Critical theory has a long history but a relatively recent intersection with public relations. This ground-breaking collection engages with commonalities and differences in the traditions whilst encouraging plural perspectives in the contemporary public relations field. Compiled by a high profile and widely respected team of academics and bringing together other key scholars from this field and beyond, this unique international collection marks a major stage in the evolution of critical public relations. It will increasingly influence how critical theory informs public relations and communication. The collection takes stock of the emergence of critical public relations alongside diverse theoretical traditions, critiques and actions, methodologies and future implications. This makes it an essential reference for public relations researchers, educators and students around a world that is becoming more critical in the face of growing inequality and environmental challenges. The volume is also of interest to scholars in advertising, branding, communication, consumer studies, cultural studies, marketing, media studies, political communication and sociology.

Islam, Constitutional Law and Human Rights Tommaso Virgili, 2021-09-15 This book focuses on Islamic constitutionalism and, in particular, on the relation between religion and the protection of individual liberties, potentially clashing with sharia and the Islamic ethos. The analysis goes from general to particular, starting with a theoretical overview on constitutionalism, human rights and Islam, moving to the assessment of the post-Arab Spring Constitutions of Egypt and Tunisia and concluding with a specific focus on the rights of sexual minorities and freethinkers. Part I provides a theoretical account of the conception of constitutionalism and human rights in Islam, compared and contrasted with Western constitutionalism. A set of issues where the tension between sharia and human rights is accentuated is analysed against the backdrop of the main Islamic charters of rights. Part II conducts a similar assessment based on the Constitutions of Tunisia and Egypt, the two main epicentres of the Arab Spring. Part III moves to two specific rights in the same countries from the twofold perspective of the Constitutions and international law: the freedom from interference in one's intimate life with particular regard to homosexuality and the freedom of holding and expressing nonconventional beliefs deemed unacceptable from the point of view of traditional Islam. These issues have been chosen as representative of the most controversial, still considered taboo in both legal and social terms, hence at the fringes of the debate on individual freedoms. Focusing on two overlooked and underexplored issues, the work thus pushes the boundaries of the human rights discourse in Muslim contexts.
