Moorish Architecture in Andalusia Marianne Barrucand, Achim Bednorz, 1992 Hispano Islamic or Moorish Andalusian art and architecture combine elements of various traditions into a new autonomous style Among the outstanding architectural witnesses to this achievement are the Great Mosque in Cordova and the Alhambra in Granada recognized and admired as part of the world's heritage right up to the present day They are described in detail in this book The main centres of Hispano Islamic art and architecture the cities of Cordova Seville and Granada are discussed within the chronological framework of developments both political and cultural from 710 to 1492 The author traces the changes in architectural forms over the centuries and concludes with an attempt to identify those enduring characteristics which run like a thread through Hispano Islamic architecture for all the different influences to which it was subject Alongside mosques castle ruins and splendid palaces the reader will find detailed photographs of Moorish decorative art in all its thousand and one variations Jacket where the story of the Church took shape Buildings are about people the people who conceived designed financed and used them Their stories become embedded in the very fabric itself and as the fabric is changed through time in response to changing use relationships and beliefs the architecture becomes the standing history of passing waves of humanity This process takes on special significance in churches where the arrangement of the space places members of the community in relationship with one another for the performance of the church's rites and ceremonies Moreover architectural forms and building materials can be used to establish relationships with other buildings in other places and other times Coordinated systems of signs symbols and images proclaim beliefs and doctrine and in a wider sense carry extended narratives of the people and their faith Looking at the history of the church through its buildings allows us to establish a tangible connection to the lives of the people involved in some of the key moments and movements that shaped that history and perhaps even a degree of intimacy with them Standing in the same place where the worshippers of the past preached and taught or in a space they built as a memorial touching the stone they placed or marking their final resting place holding a keepsake they treasured or seeing a relic they venerated probably comes as close to a shared experience with these people as it is possible to come Perhaps for a fleeting moment at such times their faces may come more clearly into focus Art and
