Movies Playing Now In Toronto Theaters:

Now Playing Paul S. Moore, 2008-04-17 Locates the origins of the mass audience and the emergence of everyday moviegoing in the culture of cities Toronto's Local Movie Theatres of Yesteryear Doug Taylor, 2016-05-21 2017 Theatre Library Association Book Awards Nominated Richard Wall Memorial Award 2017 Heritage Toronto Book Award Nominated Slip once more into the back rows of the favourite movie theatres of your youth Brought Back to Thrill You Again was an advertisement employed by theatres to disguise that they were offering older films that were past their prime In the 1950s a sign appeared outside Loew's Downtown the Elgin displaying these commonly used words The theatre was screening Gone With the Wind released in 1939 However in this instance the claim was accurate as the film did indeed thrill audiences one more time Similar to this cinematic classic this book will thrill you again as it brings back memories of Toronto's old movie theatres Relive the experience of sitting in their darkened auditoriums witnessing the adventure comedy and romance of the silver screen Most of the theatres have been demolished but to visually recreate them the book includes 128 historic pictures of the theatres exteriors marquees colourful neon signs and auditoriums many of the photos never before published in books or on the internet Toronto Sketches Mike Filey, 1992-09-01 These are collections of Mike Filey's best work from his popular and long running Toronto Sun column The Way We Were The Billboard, 1926 Toronto New Wave cinema and the anarchist-apocalypse David Christopher, 2025-06-10 The Toronto New Wave TNW comprises a group of avant garde filmmakers working in Canada from the 1980s and into the new millennium whose innovative film works share significant affinities with anarchist themes and aesthetics Several of the TNW filmmakers openly identify as anarchists and or acknowledge a debt to anarchism in their production of highly apocalyptic narratives as part of their cinematic political projects However recognition of anarchism's progressive apocalyptic theoretical relevance has yet to be substantially taken up by scholarship in cinema analysis This analysis introduces an anarchist inflected analytical methodology to understand the apocalyptic revelatory political work these films attempt to accomplish in the perceptual space between the filmic texts and both their auteurs and potential viewers and to re locate the TNW within cinema history as an ongoing phenomenon with new significance in an apocalyptic era of digital distribution Cinema Treasures Ross Melnick, Andreas Fuchs, 2004 More than 100 years after the first movie delighted audiences movie theaters remain the last great community centers and one of the few amusements any family can afford While countless books have been devoted to films and their stars none have attempted a truly definitive history of those magical venues that have transported moviegoers since the beginning of the last century In this stunningly illustrated book film industry insiders Ross Melnick and Andreas Fuchs take readers from the nickelodeon to the megaplex and show how changes in moviemaking and political social and technological forces e g war depression the baby boom the VCR have influenced the way we see movies Archival photographs from archives like the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences and movie theater ephemera postcards period ads matchbooks and even a barf bag sourced from private collections complement Melnick's informative and engaging history. Also included throughout the book are Fuchs' profiles detailing 25 classic movie theaters that have been restored and renovated and which continue to operate today. Each of these two-page spreads is illustrated with marvelous modern photographs, many taken by top architectural photographers. The result is a fabulous look at one way in which Americans continue to come together as a nation. A timeline throughout places the developments described in a broader historical context. We've had a number of beautiful books about the great movie palaces and even some individual volumes that pay tribute to surviving theaters around the country. This is the first book I can recall that focuses on the survivors from coast to coast and puts them into historical context. Sumptuously produced in an oversized format on heavy coated paper stock, this beautiful book offers a lively history of movie theaters in America, an impressive array of photos and memorabilia, and a heartening survey of the landmarks in our midst, from the majestic Fox Tucson Theatre in Tucson, Arizona, to the charming jewel box that is the Avon in Stamford, Connecticut. I don't know why, but I never tire of gazing at black and white photos that evoke the era of moviemaking and moviegoing. I care about the most, and this book is packed with them. Cinema Treasures is indeed a treasure and a perfect gift item for the holiday season. Leonard Maltin. Humble or grandiose, stand alone or strung together, movie theaters are places where dreams are born. Once upon a time they were treated with the respect they deserve. In their heyday, historian Ross Melnick and exhibitor Andreas Fuchs write in Cinema Treasures, openings of new motion picture pleasure palaces that would have dazzled Kubla Khan received enormous attention in newspapers around the country. On top of the publicity they generated, their debuts were treated like the gala openings of new operas or exhibits, with critics weighing in on everything from the interior and exterior design to the orchestra. Handsomely produced and extensively illustrated, Cinema Treasures is detailed without being dull and thoroughly at home with this often neglected subject matter. Its title would have you believe it is a celebration of the golden age of movie theaters. But this book is something completely different: an examination of the history of movie exhibition, which the authors accurately call a vastly under-researched topic. Los Angeles Times Torn Sprockets Gerald Pratley, 1987. The history of Canadian filmmaking is a fascinating topic, and in this book the author takes the reader through the early years of the twentieth century when Hollywood monopolized the industry. Edison's Kinetoscope enthralled the public, and motion picture exhibitions swept across Canada. Toronto Theatres and the Golden Age of the Silver Screen Doug Taylor, 2014-07-22. The history, heritage, and architectural significance of Toronto's most notable theatres and movie houses. Movie houses first started popping up around Toronto in the 1910s and 20s, in an era without television and before radio had permeated every household. Dozens of these grand structures were built and soon became an important part of the cultural and architectural fabric of the city. A century later, the surviving defunct and reinvented movie houses of Toronto's past are filled with captivating stories. Explore fifty historic Toronto movie houses and theaters and discover their roles as repositories of memories for a city that continues to grow its cinema legacy. Features stunning historic photography.

 Scott Mitchell,2002-04 What s been said about Secret Montreal The Oxford Handbook of Canadian Cinema Janine Marchessault,Will Straw,2019-03-20 The chapters in The Oxford Handbook of Canadian Cinema present a rich diverse overview of Canadian cinema Responding to the latest developments in Canadian film studies this volume takes into account the variety of artistic voices media technologies and places which have marked cinema in Canada throughout its history Drawing on a range of established and emerging scholars from a range of disciplines this volume will be useful to teachers scholars and to a general readership interested in cinema in Canada Moving beyond the director focused approach of much previous scholarship this book is concerned with communities institutions and audiences for Canadian cinema at both national and international levels The choice of subjects covered ranges from popular genre cinema to the most experimental of artistic interventions Canadian cinema is seen in its interaction with other forms of art making and media production in Canada and at the international level Particular attention has been paid to the work of Indigenous filmmakers members of diasporic communities and feminist and LGBTQ artists The result is a book attentive to the complex social and institutional contexts in which Canadian cinema is made and consumed Early Cinema and the "National" Richard Abel,Giorgio Bertellini,Rob King,2008-12-17 Essays on how motion pictures in the first two decades of the 20th century constructed communities of nationality recommended Choice While many studies have been written on national cinemas Early Cinema and the National is the first anthology to focus on the concept of national film culture from a wide methodological spectrum of interests including not only visual and narrative forms but also international geopolitics exhibition and marketing practices and pressing linkages to national imageries The essays in this richly illustrated landmark anthology are devoted to reconsidering the nation as a framing category for writing cinema history Many of the 34 contributors show that concepts of a national identity played a role in establishing the parameters of cinema s early development from technological change to discourses of stardom from emerging genres to intertitling practices Yet as others attest national meanings could often become knotty in other contexts when concepts of nationhood were contested in relation to colonial imperial histories and regional configurations Early Cinema and the National takes stock of a formative moment in cinema history tracing the beginnings of the process whereby nations learned to imagine themselves through moving images Thailand, Western Cinema, and Imagery Andrew Russell,2024-12-15 In this book Andrew Russell explores Western media s fascination with images of the East by focusing primarily on Thailand as a case study Russell argues that Hollywood s representation of Thailand still relies heavily on an Orientalist gaze filled with stereotypes that exoticise and eroticise both the country and its people Furthermore he also addresses the impact this has had on Thai filmmakers who have at times utilised a process of erasure by reducing national specificity in their films to prime them for global export building on previously successful waves from other areas of Asia like the J Horror cycle that made way for their inclusion in the Western marketplace Despite these trends however this book finds that Thai filmmakers are reclaiming the imagery of their country and people in the arthouse sector utilising critically divisive slow cinema aesthetics to address pertinent allegorical content Ultimately this book argues that through an understanding of the context and culture of production we can gain new understanding of important political factual and artistic history that reveals a unique version of Thailand not previously seen on Western screens Scholars of film studies Asian studies cultural studies and history will find this book of particular interest

The Cinema of Hockey Iri Cermak, 2017-02-13 Ice hockey has featured in North American films since the early days Hockey's sizable cinematic repertoire explores different views of the sport including the role of aggression the business of sports race and gender and the role of women in the game This critical study focuses on hockey themes in more than 50 films and television movies from the U S and Canada spanning several decades Depictions of historical games are discussed including the 1980 Miracle on Ice and the 1972 Summit Series National myths that inform ideas of the hockey player are examined Production techniques that enhance hockey as on screen spectacle are covered

The Film Renter and Moving Picture News, 1926 Polish Cinema Today Helena Goscilo, Beth Holmgren, 2021-08-19 A 2022 Choice Reviews Outstanding Academic Title Structured according to key themes Polish Cinema Today analyzes the remarkable innovations in Polish cinema emerging a decade after the 1989 dissolution of the Soviet bloc once its film industry had evolved from a socialist state enterprise into a much more accessible system of film production with growing expertise in distribution and marketing By the early 2000s an impressive diverse cohort of filmmakers broke through the gridlock of a small set of esteemed aging auteurs as well as the glut of imported Hollywood blockbusters empowered by the digital revolution and domestic audience appetite for independent work Polish directors today challenge sacrosanct bromides about national and gender identity Poland's historical martyrdom the status of the influential Catholic Church and the benevolent family while investigating the phenomena of migration and sexuality in their full complexity Each thematic chapter places these recent films within a historical cultural context nationally and transnationally and designs its analyses of specific works to engage general audiences of film scholars students and cinephiles

African Cinema: Manifesto and Practice for Cultural Decolonization Michael T. Martin, Gaston Jean-Marie Kaboré, 2023-08-08 Challenging established views and assumptions about traditions and practices of filmmaking in the African diaspora this three volume set offers readers a researched critique on black film Volume Two of this landmark series on African cinema is devoted to the decolonizing mediation of the Pan African Film Television Festival of Ouagadougou FESPACO the most important inclusive and consequential cinematic convocation of its kind in the world Since its creation in 1969 FESPACO's mission is in principle remarkably unchanged to unapologetically recover chronicle affirm and reconstitute the representation of the African continent and its global diasporas of people thereby enunciating in the cinematic all manner of Pan African identity experience and the futurity of the Black World This volume features historically significant and commissioned essays commentaries conversations dossiers and programmatic statements and manifestos that

Daniela Treveri Gennari,Danielle Hipkins,Catherine O'Rawe,2018-10-19 Although it has only been in the last decade that the planet s population balance tipped from a predominantly rural makeup towards an urban one the field of cinema history has demonstrated a disproportionate skew toward the urban Within audience studies however an increasing number of scholars are turning their attention away from the bright lights of the urban and towards the less well lit and infinitely more variegated history of rural cinema going Rural Cinema Exhibition and Audiences in A Global Context is the first volume to consider rural cinema going from a global perspective It aims to provide a rich and wide ranging introduction to this growing field and to further develop some of its key questions It brings together eighteen international scholars or teams all representatives of a dynamic new field Moving beyond a Western focus is essential for thinking through questions of rural exhibition distribution and cinema experience since over the relatively short history of cinema it is the rural that has dominated cinema goers lives in much of the developing world To this end the volume also innovates by bringing discussions of North American and European ruralities into dialogue with contributions on Kenya Brazil China Thailand South Africa and
