Deadly Developments Stephen and Downs Reyna,2005-08-04 Ten anthropologists trace the machinations of war and the effects of violence in capitalist states from their formation to the present This collection the newest volume in the War and Society series questions the foundations of classical social theory while investigating local and international conflict through the critical and cross cultural lens of social theory history and anthropology The essays combine to challenge the notion developed by social theorists such as Comte Spencer Durkheim and Engels that war will diminish with the formation and the perpetuation of a capitalist economy and industry The development of capitalist states and the nefarious and violent processes which must occur to reproduce capitalism are rarely realized and then infrequently analyzed Many western and ethnocentric scholarly representations of war succeed in hiding the deadly developments that occur as a result of capitalist state formation and relations

Genres of Transition: Literature and

Economy in Portuguese-Speaking Southern Africa Thomas Waller,2024-07-22 This book argues that literary production in Portuguese speaking southern Africa has developed distinctive aesthetic idioms that critically respond to crises of global capitalism and related failures of post colonial governance Drawing from recent research at the intersection of world systems analysis and materialist theories of world literature it identifies and evaluates two generic trends in the post independence literatures of Mozambique and Angola From the mid 1980s to the early 1990s there is a marked tendency in Mozambican literary production towards fictional representations of ghosts spectral effects and gothic narrative techniques In Angola there is an analogous outburst of literary expression from the mid 1990s onwards in which writers increasingly turn towards dystopian images of apocalypse ecological crisis and the disintegration of existing modes of social reproduction Away from a restricted focus on the decline of the post independence Marxist Leninist state the book contends that the upswing in these two genres of writing functions to critically register a world systemic horizon that both surpasses and includes locally determined national realities The patterned repetition of spectral and dystopian forms in Portuguese speaking southern Africa occurred at a time of heightened capitalisation in which the region was subjected to newly expropriative forms of accumulation and ecological enclosure via integration into a reconstellated world system headed by neoliberal finance capital Through close readings of texts by authors such as Mia Couto Suleiman Cassamo Ungulani Ba Ka Khosa Pepetela and Ondjaki this book asks What factors drove literary production towards the figure of the spectre in Mozambique and towards dystopia in Angola What emerging energies and social contradictions found shape in these generic idioms in ways that existing vocabularies were unable to express What does the geo temporal passage from spectrality to dystopia tell us about the history of capitalist development in southern Africa and about the restructuring of political economic parameters across the globe

Understanding and Applying Medical Anthropology Peter J. Brown, Svea Closser, 2016-07-01

The editors of the third edition of the seminal textbook Understanding and Applying Medical Anthropology bring it completely up to date for both instructors and students. The collection of 49 readings, 17 of them new to this edition, offers extensive background description and exposes students to the breadth of theoretical, methodological, and practical perspectives and issues in the field of medical anthropology. The text provides specific examples and case studies of research as it is applied to a range of health settings, from cross-cultural clinical encounters to cultural analysis of new biomedical technologies and the implementation of programs in global health settings. The new edition features a major revision that eliminates many older readings in favor of more fresh, relevant selections: a new section on structural violence that looks at the impact of poverty and other forms of social marginalization on health; an updated and expanded section on Conceptual Tools including new research and ideas that are currently driving the field of medical anthropology forward, such as epigenetics and syndemics; new chapters on climate change, Ebola, PTSD among Iraq/Afghanistan veterans, eating disorders, and autism, among others; recent articles from Margaret Mead Award winners Sera Young, Seth Holmes, and Erin Finley, along with new articles by such established medical anthropologists as Paul Farmer and Merrill Singer.

Privatizing the State Béatrice Hibou, 2004

In the new global political economy, privatization names a transformation of the roles of public and private actors with the goal of reforming government policies and economic aid programs. It is an objective, a slogan, a fetish. But what does it signify? On the one hand, it refers to the process of changing industries, businesses, and services from governmental or public ownership to private agencies. But privatization now also extends to what are normally the prerogatives of national states: taxation, customs, internal security, national defense, and peace negotiations. In much of the literature, privatization is associated with the retreat, decline, or even demise of the state. Using Max Weber's concept of delegation or discharge as a point of departure, Hibou and the contributors of this volume propose an alternative view interpreting the contemporary restructuring of economic and political relations in much of the world as the privatization of the state. This book challenges received ideas about the process of globalization and its presumed homogenization by suggesting that, rather than weakening the powers of the state, privatization actually strengthens it. With examples from Russia, Poland, China, Taiwan, Indonesia, North Africa, and sub-Saharan Africa, the book questions the supposed inefficiency of states in regulating capitalism and the role economic and financial knowledge plays as substitutes for political and social analysis.

HIV Scale-Up and the Politics of Global Health Nora Kenworthy, Richard Parker, 2017-10-02

The global expansion of HIV programming, HIV scale-up, and the growth of global health in the past decade reshaped politics, power, civic relations, and citizen subjectivities in countries across the globe. This book draws on interdisciplinary research from numerous sites in the Global South to examine the political dimensions of HIV and global health programming The chapters reflect extensive methodological diversity and geographic range yet exhibit striking resonance with the book's core themes Collectively the authors paint a complex global portrait of a unique period in the social history of HIV as the pandemic enters its fourth decade and the global response reaches its peak The book contemplates scale up and subsequently scale down as an object of analysis and an historical shift in the politics of response to global crisis Ultimately HIV AIDS campaigns provide a template for the broader expansion of global health projects and institutions These transnational shifts and expansions necessitate further critical evaluations across social science and public health disciplines By collecting diverse perspectives on the political legacies of HIV and global health this book provides a unique history of the present cataloguing emerging practices and policies that will have long term social impacts This book was originally published as a special issue of Global Public Health
