Mrs. Dalloway said she would buy the flowers herself.

agency, quite dull and trivial - DESIRE

CONTEXT: time

For Lucy had her work cut out for her. The doors would be taken off their hinges; Rumpelmayer's men were coming. And then, thought Clarissa Dalloway, what a morning--fresh as if issued to children on a beach.

What a lark! What a plunge! For so it had always seemed to her, when, with a little squeak of the hinges, which she could hear now, she had burst open the French windows and plunged at Bourton into the open air. How fresh, how calm, stiller than this of course, the air was in the early morning; like the flap of a wave; the kiss of a wave; chill and sharp and yet (for a girl of eighteen as she then was) solemn, feeling as she did, standing there at the open window, that something awful was about to happen; looking at the flowers, at the trees with the smoke winding off them and the rooks rising, falling; standing and looking until Peter Walsh said, "Musing among the vegetables?"--was that it?--"I prefer men to cauliflowers"--was that it? He must have said it at breakfast one morning when she had gone out on to the terrace--Peter Walsh. He would be back from India one of these days, June or July, she forgot which, for his letters were awfully dull; it was his sayings one remembered; his eyes, his pocket-knife, his smile, his grumpiness and, when millions of things had utterly vanished--how strange it was!--a few sayings like this about cabbages.

She stiffened a little on the kerb, waiting for Durtall's van to pass. A charming woman, Scope Purvis thought her (knowing her as one does know people who live next door to one in Westminster); a touch of the bird about her, of the jay, blue-green, light, vivacious, though she was over fifty, and grown very white since her illness. There she perched, never seeing him, waiting to cross, very upright.

For having lived in Westminster--how many years now? over twenty.--one feels even in the midst of the traffic, or waking at night, Clarissa was positive, a particular hush, or solemnity; an indescribable pause; a suspense (but that might be her heart, affected, they said, by influenza) before Big Ben strikes. There! Out it boomed. First a warning, musical; then the hour, irrevocable. The leaden circles dissolved in the air. Such fools we are, she thought, crossing Victoria Street. For Heaven only knows why one loves it so, how one sees it so, making it up, building it round one, tumbling it, creating it every moment afresh; but the veriest frumps, the most dejected of miseries sitting on

At the Violet Hour Sarah Cole, 2012-11-01 Literature has long sought to make sense of the destruction and aggression wrought by human civilization Yet no single literary movement was more powerfully shaped by violence than modernism As Sarah Cole shows modernism emerged as an imaginative response to the devastating events that defined the period including the chaos of anarchist bombings World War I the Irish uprising and the Spanish Civil War Combining historical detail with resourceful readings of fiction poetry journalism photographs and other cultural materials At the Violet Hour explores the strange intimacy between modernist aesthetics and violence in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries The First World War and T S Eliot's The Waste Land demonstrate the new theoretical paradigm that Cole deploys throughout her study what she calls enchanted and disenchanted violence the polarizing perceptions of violent death as either the fuel for regeneration or the emblem of grotesque loss These concepts thread through the literary historical moments that form the core of her study beginning with anarchism and the advent of dynamite violence in late Victorian England As evinced in novels by Joseph Conrad Henry James and others anarchism fostered a vibrant modern consciousness of violence entrenched in sensationalism and melodrama A subsequent chapter offers four interpretive categories keening generative violence reprisal and allegory for reading violence in works by W B Yeats J M Synge Sean O Casey and others around the time of Ireland's Easter Rising The book concludes with a discussion of Virginia Woolf's oeuvre placing the author in two primary relations to the encroaching culture of violence deeply exploring and formalizing its registers and veering away from her peers to construct an original set of patterns to accommodate its visceral ubiquity in the years leading up to the Second World War A rich interdisciplinary study that incorporates perspectives from history anthropology the visual arts and literature At the Violet Hour provides a resonant framework for refiguring the relationship between aesthetics and violence that will extend far beyond the period traditionally associated with literary modernism Mrs. Dalloway Virginia Woolf, 2020-02-03 Mrs

Translation Changes Everything

Lawrence Venuti,2013 In Translation Changes Everything leading theorist Lawrence Venuti gathers fourteen of his incisive essays since 2000 The selection sketches the trajectory of his thinking about translation while engaging with the main trends in research and commentary The issues covered include basic concepts like equivalence retranslation and reader reception sociological topics like the impact of translations in the academy and the global cultural economy and philosophical problems such as the translator s unconscious and translation ethics Every essay presents case studies that include Venuti s own translation projects illuminating the connections between theoretical concepts and verbal choices The texts drawn from a broad variety of languages are both humanistic and pragmatic encompassing such forms as poems and novels religious and philosophical works travel guidebooks and advertisements The discussions all explore practical applications whether writing publishing reviewing teaching or studying translations Venuti s aim is to conceive of translation as an interpretive act with far reaching social effects at once enabled and constrained by specific cultural situations This latest chapter in his developing work is essential reading for translators and students of translation alike

Mrs. Dalloway

Virginia Woolf,2023-06-22 Probably Virginia Woolf s best known novel Mrs Dalloway originally published in 1925 is a glorious ground breaking text On the surface it follows Clarissa Dalloway an Englishwoman in her fifties minute by minute through the June day on which she is having a party At a deeper level however the novel demonstrates through an effortless stream of consciousness the connections formed in human interaction whether these interactions are fleeting or persist through decades This is a novel to read and cherish if only to marvel at Woolf s linguistic acrobatics Words and phrases swoop and soar like swallows Woolf's sentences are magnificent sinuous whirling impeccably detailed As narrative perspective shifts from character to character sometimes within a single sentence readers come to understand the oh so permeable barrier between self and other Through Clarissa we meet Septimus Warren Smith his wife Rezia and a cast of dozens more all connected by the leaden circles of Big Ben marking the passage of every hour by the pavements of Bloomsbury that lead everywhere and nowhere Modernist London has never been portrayed more sublimely replete with birdsong and flowers resplendent in sunshine youthful yet eternal and even in the aftermath of war and pandemic resilient Mrs Dalloway is Woolf's attempt to express that which may be inexpressible It offers a close examination of how difficult it is even when our hearts are brimming to say what we really feel and it examines the damage we inflict through our reticence with words our withholding of love It is a novel of the soul and a work of immense beauty Virginia Woolf Miscellany, 2006 After
