Others explore subjects that have only relatively recently become pressing concerns for sustained scholarly interrogation such as ecology cross species interaction and humoral theory Some contributions informed by increasingly sophisticated approaches to the material conditions and embodied experience of theatrical practice speak to a resurgence of interest in performance from Shakespeare's period through the first decades of the twenty first century Others still investigate distinct sets of plays from unexpected and often polemical angles noting connections between the comedies under inventive unpredicted banners such as the theology of adultery early modern pedagogy global exploration or monarchical rule The Handbook situates these approaches against the long history of criticism and provides a valuable overview of the most up to date work in the field

Much Ado about Nothing Harold Bloom, Sterling Professor of Humanities Harold Bloom, Michael G. Cornelius, 2010 Presents a collection of essays discussing historical aspects of William Shakespeare's comedy in which Beatrice and Benedick overcome the obstacles preventing their union and ultimately conceding to mutual love and respect for each other

Shakespeare's Dramatic Persons Travis Curtright, 2016-12-05 In Shakespeare's Dramatic Persons Travis Curtright examines the influence of the classical rhetorical tradition on early modern theories of acting in a careful study of and selection from Shakespeare's most famous characters and successful plays Curtright demonstrates that personation the early modern term for playing a role is a rhetorical acting style that could provide audiences with lifelike characters and action including the theatrical illusion that dramatic persons possess interiority or inwardness Shakespeare's Dramatic Persons focuses on major characters such as Richard III Katherine Benedick and Iago and ranges from Shakespeare's early to late work exploring particular rhetorical forms and how they function in five different plays At the end of this study Curtright envisions how Richard Burbage Shakespeare's best actor might have employed the theatrical convention of directly addressing audience members Though personation clearly differs from the realism aspired to in modern approaches to the stage Curtright reveals how Shakespeare's sophisticated use and development of persuasion's arts would have provided early modern actors with their own means and sense of performing lifelike dramatic persons alongside the discursive and material practices of sixteenth century English pedagogy Humanist training in Latin grammar and rhetorical facility was designed to intervene in social reproduction to sort out which differences between bodies male and female and groups aristocrats the middling sort and those below were necessary to producing proper English gentlemen But the method adopted by Lynn Enterline in this book uncovers a rather different story from the one schoolmasters invented to promote the social efficacy of their pedagogical innovations Beginning with the observation that Shakespeare frequently reengaged school techniques through the voices of those it excluded particularly women Enterline shows that when his portraits of love and woe betray their institutional origins they reveal both the cost of a Latin education as well as the contradictory conditions of genteel masculinity in sixteenth century Britain In contrast to attempts to explain early modern emotion in relation to medical discourse Enterline uncovers the crucial role that rhetoric and the texts of the classical past play in Shakespeare's passions She relies throughout on the axiom that rhetoric has two branches that continuously interact tropological requiring formal literary analysis and transactional requiring social and historical analysis Each chapter moves between grammar school archives and literary canon using linguistic rhetorical and literary detail to illustrate the significant difference between what humanists claimed their methods would achieve and what the texts of at least one former schoolboy reveal about the institution's unintended literary and social consequences When Shakespeare creates the convincing effects of character and emotion for which he is so often singled out as a precursor of modern subjectivity he signals his debt to the Latin institution that granted him the cultural capital of an early modern gentleman precisely when undercutting the socially normative categories schoolmasters invoked as their educational goal

Poetics of Character Susan Manning, 2013-11-14

This study of character in a comparative context presents a new approach to transatlantic literary history Rereading Romanticism across national generic and chronological boundaries and through close textual comparisons it offers exciting possibilities for rediscovering how literature engages and persuades readers of the reality of character Historically grounded in the eighteenth century philosophical political and cultural conditions that generated nation based literary history it reveals alternative narratives to those of origin and succession influence and reception It also reintroduces rhetoric and poetics as ways of addressing questions about uniqueness and representativeness in character creation epistemological issues of identity and impersonation and the generation of literary value Drawing comparisons between works from Alexander Pope and Cotton Mather through Robert Burns Jane Austen John Keats Nathaniel Hawthorne Edgar Allan Poe R W Emerson Margaret Fuller and Herman Melville to George Eliot and Henry James Susan Manning reveals surprising metaphorical metonymic and performative connections

Katrina Jonathan Holmes, 2010-04-19 In August 2005 Hurricane Katrina narrowly missed New Orleans The resulting storms breached rotting levees and emptied neighbouring Lake Pontchartrain into the city Marooned by floodwater that swamped over 80% of their homes the inhabitants had to wait a week without food or clean water before their own government came to their aid Katrina uses survivor testimonies and the rich cultural tradition of New Orleans to tell the story of the immediate aftermath of the hurricane Shedding light on some of the more extraordinary and under reported aspects of the tragedy the play portrays an odyssey through a drowned space and a series of encounters with individuals displaced and abandoned within their own city The plot follows from the death of Virgil a decadent old New Orleanian who has been killed by Hurricane Katrina Trapped by the rising floodwater his partner Beatrice determines to take his body to safety at City Hall During her journey she encounters a number of other survivors and hears their tales A Jericho House production Katrina premiered at the Bargehouse Oxo Tower Wharf on 1 September 2009
