Multiculturalism and the Arts in European Cities Marco Martiniello, 2014 Aneignung und Selbstbehauptung Anne E. Dünzelmann, 2004-11-09 Nach dem Anwerbestopp 1973 setzte sich allmählich die Erkenntnis durch, dass die so genannten GastarbeiterInnen inzwischen als Zu- bzw. Eingewanderte einen festen Platz in der bundesrepublikanischen Gesellschaft beanspruchen. Im Laufe der Zeit erbrachte diese Migrantengruppe beachtliche Akkulturationsleistungen im Wohnbereich als Nutzer und Impulsgeber im deutschen Kleingartenwesen als Initiatoren einer lebendigen multikulturellen Vereinslandschaft als Teilhaber an politischen Einrichtungen. Die damit verbundene Herausbildung institutionaler und personaler Netzwerke beeinflusste bis in die Altersphase die Optionen für veränderte Lebensperspektiven in der Migration und entschied mit über Rückkehr oder Verbleib in der Aufnahmegesellschaft.

Religion as a Political Resource Miriam Schader, 2017-01-02 Miriam Schader shows that migrants can use religion as a resource for political involvement in their new country of residence but under certain circumstances only. The author analyses the role religious networks and symbols play for the politicization and participation of Muslim and Christian migrants from sub-Saharan Africa in Berlin and Paris. Against the widely held belief that Islam is a political religion in itself, this study demonstrates that Christian migrants draw on their religion for political action more easily than their Muslim counterparts. It also highlights that it is not religion in general which helps migrants get politically active but particular forms of religious organisations and particular theological elements.

Minorities in European Cities Sophie Body-Gendrot, Marco Martiniello, 2000-09-02 This collection studies the behavior of immigrants in increasingly globalized European cities. Studying European neighborhoods from the point of view of immigrants challenged by economic restructuring, the book simultaneously explores two topics: the integration and exclusion of immigrants and the evolution of European cities confronted by globalization.

The Intercultural City Step by Step Council of Europe, 2013-01-01 Most countries in Europe and indeed around the world are facing the challenges of international migration and integration of minorities. It falls primarily upon cities to design and implement policies that foster community cohesion and turn cultural diversity into a factor of development rather than a threat. This guide is designed for city leaders and practitioners wishing to learn from the Intercultural Cities pilot project run by the Council of Europe and the European Commission in developing an intercultural approach to diversity management and integration. This approach has been built on the basis of experience in dozens of real-life cities in redesigning their policies and reshaping their governance to ensure equal opportunities and realise a diversity advantage. The guide recommends steps and measures to help develop an intercultural strategy and monitor its implementation. It illustrates the elements of such a strategy with analytical questions, suggestions and examples of practice in various European cities. It is expected that any city embarking on the Intercultural Cities agenda is a confident and competent entity that is able to creatively adapt the general concepts and actions contained in this guide to local circumstances. This guide is therefore not an instruction manual but rather an aide memoire to support cities as they create their own trajectory Citizenship in European Cities Karen Kraal, Steven Vertovec, 2017-03-02 There are relatively few books that provide comparative analysis of European cities in relation to immigrants and political participation This fresh and insightful volume from the same team that published Multicultural Policies and Modes of Citizenship in European Cities in 2001 analyzes how the presence of immigrants is perceived in politics how this affects their status and how far minorities are able to politically participate in European cities The comparative studies address the influence of minority politics as well as that of migrant mediators and ethnic organizations on the participation of minorities There are a variety of case studies from northern and southern Europe offering insights into countries that differ in their modes of citizenship The volume will be of specific interest to scholars researchers and policy makers in migration citizenship and multiculturalism as well as a more general audience of sociologists political sociologists political scientists anthropologists and social geographers Multicultural Policies and Modes of Citizenship in European Cities Alisdair Rogers, Jean Tillie, 2001 Globalization is a dominant feature of the end of the 20th century One phenomenon characterizing the contemporary world is the increase in international population movements These massive population flows have been facilitated by a series of factors such as the development of communication transport technologies and global networks which have significantly contributed to the increased immigration of refugee workers and their families to developed countries particularly to Western European countries European Cities, Municipal Organizations and Diversity Maria Schiller, 2016-07-23 This book challenges the prevailing view that local authorities are irrelevant in immigration policy making Presenting an in depth ethnographic study of the recent implementation of local diversity policies in the Netherlands Belgium and United Kingdom it identifies a new politics of difference characterized by a paradigmatic pragmatism Building on extensive fieldwork in Amsterdam Antwerp and Leeds the author shows that rather than simply replacing an earlier politics of difference local diversity policies combine ideals of multiculturalism assimilation and diversity She links these findings to the ongoing modernization and diversification of municipal authorities and the impact of this transformation on the profile of the bureaucrats and their implementation of diversity policies This thought provoking work will appeal to students researchers and practitioners engaged in the fields of immigration diversity and multiculturalism div Multicultures and Cities Gösta Arvastson, Tim Butler, 2006 In the planning of city development it is important that different groups should be able to live in peaceful coexistence This is how the concept multicultural came about During the 1970s multiculturalism was developed into a model of political democracy a strategy for society's rapid change The term multiculturalism suggests that contemporary urban cultures somehow co exist in a condition of mutual respect and possible equality The new multiculturalism seems very different from the migration that took place in the 1960s and 1970s The essays in this collection address the general themes of ethnicity and contemporary European urbanism in many different ways examining a wide variety of cities and city pairings The common bond in these writings is the impact that a contemporary merging of ethnicity and culture is having on the new urbanity that is now widely accepted as driving the new Europe The effect is far greater than might be predicted from the relative social powerlessness of many of the bearers of these cultures At the same time existing urban processes continue to ensure the marginality of these groups

Multicultural Citizenship of the European Union Juan M. Delgado-Moreira,2000 A study of the theoretical debate over how to reconcile multiculturalism citizenship and the need for a collective identity within the European Union It explores the steps taken by EU institutions towards creating a European identity and fostering a sense of citizenship and collective heritage

European Multiculturalism Revisited Alessandro Silj,2010-10-14 European Multiculturalism Revisited analyses the alleged crises of the main models of multicultural societies experienced by Europe since the end of World War II based on research conducted by local scholars in the UK Denmark the Netherlands Italy France and Germany Each chapter provides an historical account of how the model developed and was implemented in the country in question followed by an in depth analysis of the factors that have led to the claim that the model has failed The questions being Did it actually fail And if it failed was it because of some intrinsic weaknesses or external circumstances This volume is a groundbreaking contribution to a topic of vital contemporary importance

Migration and the European City Christoph Cornelißen,Beat Kümin,Massimo Rospoher,2022-03-07 Looking back over the centuries migration has always formed an important part of human existence Spatial mobility emerges as a key driver of urban evolution characterized by situation specific combinations of opportunities restrictions and fears This collection of essays investigates interactions between European cities and migration between the early modern period and the present Building on conceptual approaches from history sociology and cultural studies twelve contributions focus on policies representations and the impact on local communities more generally Combining case studies and theoretical reflections the volume s contributions engage with a variety of topics and disciplinary perspectives yet also with several common themes One revolves around problems of definition both in terms of demarcating cities from their surroundings and of distinguishing migration in a narrower sense from other forms of short and long distance mobility Further shared concerns include the integration of multiple analytical scales contextual factors and diachronic variables such as urbanization industrialization and the digital revolution

Superdiversity in the Heart of Europe Dirk Geldof,2016 The 21st century will be the century of superdiversity Ethnic cultural diversity in Europe continues to grow even though governments try to limit further migration with a series of short sighted measures In Brussels the capital city of Belgium and Europe two out of every three residents has a migration background Within a matter of years Antwerp will also become a majority minority city as will many other European cities How will superdiversity change our society How can we all manage to live together in superdiversity This book wants to redefine the deadlocked ideological debate about the desirability or otherwise of a multicultural society In the 21st century it is no longer a question of whether we want such a society or not but a question of how we can deal with a superdiverse reality that is already upon us How can we make best use of the potential inherent in this superdiversity and how can we avoid the pitfalls it entails Superdiversity in the heart of Europe builds further of the concept of superdiversity as propounded by Steven Vertovec It combines this framework with the work of Ulrich Beck and others to analyze the context of superdiversity in Belgium and the Netherlands It also gives a summary of contemporary research into diversity in the heart of Europe As such it hopes to make a contribution towards the necessary normalization of superdiversity in our rapidly changing modern world The Intercultural City Giovanna Marconi,Elena Ostanel,2016-03-31

The resulting cultural differences can often create problems and conflict In Europe alone the sheer scale of migration is forcing the issue to the top of the political agenda The Intercultural City brings together scholars from a range of disciplines including urban studies geography planning sociology political science and spatial design to explore both the failings of existing policies to manage diversity and to examine how one might begin to create ways to remove obstacles and enhance the integration of migrants and minorities Combining fresh theoretical insights with studies from cities in Europe North America Asia and Africa The Intercultural City offers a timely and important contribution to the challenge of managing diversity in the city of the twenty first century

An Identity for Europe R. Kastoryano,2011-03-16 This book looks at the role of multiculturalism in the complex construction of the European Union acknowledging the tension of creating a new political space for identities that are simultaneously national regional linguistic and religious and yet strive to encompass a political and geographic whole

Inter-group Relations and Migrant Integration in European Cities Ferruccio Pastore,Irene Ponzo,2016-02-24 This open access book presents a comparative analysis of intergroup relations and migrant integration at the neighbourhood level in Europe Featuring a unique collection of portraits of urban relations between the majority population and immigrant minorities it examines how relations are structured and evolve in different and increasingly diverse local societies Inside readers will find a coordinated set of ethnographic studies conducted in eleven neighbourhoods of five European cities London Barcelona Budapest Nuremberg and Turin The wide ranging coverage encompasses post industrial districts struggling to counter decline vibrant super diverse areas and everything in between Featuring highly contextualised cross disciplinary explorations presented within a solid comparative framework this book considers such questions as Why does the native immigrant split become a tense boundary in some neighbourhoods of some European cities but not in others To what extent are ethnically framed conflicts driven by site specific factors or instead by broader exogenous ones How much does the structure of urban spaces count in fuelling inter ethnic tensions and what can local policy communities do to prevent this The answers it provides are based on a multi layer approach which combines in depth analysis of intergroup relations with a strong attention towards everyday categorization processes media representations and narratives on which local policies are based Even though the relations between the majority and migrant minorities are a central topic the volume also offers readers a broader perspective of social and urban transformation in contemporary urban settings It provides insightful research on migration and urban studies as well as social dynamics that scholars and students around the world will find relevant In addition policy makers will find evidence based and practically relevant lessons for the governance of increasingly diverse and mobile societies Making it Home Simon Mundy,1997
